

1: Coaching to Success

Why Attend?

Coaching skills are considered the foundation of leadership. Leaders who use powerful 'coaching' techniques have more effective staff, higher morale, and better bottom-line results than those who don't. Successful leaders use a self-directed coaching approach to help staff release their potential and take personal ownership of improvement areas and create solutions. These leaders also have high levels of retention, better customer service in their organizations, and increased productivity.

Who Should Attend?

Executives, managers or supervisors or anyone responsible for leading others to achieve outstanding performance. Workshop is customized and can be half, one or two day program.
